Ammo Indent

The ammo Indent is in transit after a slow start outside TSNZ's control. The office will advise more details in due course.

Presidents Report

It is with relief that the indent ammo order has started the journey to us. The delay was caused by a number of uninformed items all outside our control. We will contact all involved once it's in our hot hands.

I was fortunate to make the Horowhenua team that participated in the recent "Teams of Ten" event run in Wellington recently. I was absolutely pleased to note the atmosphere was, to my mind, the friendliest competition I have participated in for a while. Congratulations to Wellywood and their team for a well-run event, I guess a few prayers for no rain paid off. Congratulations to the winning teams, who performed above their own expectations, (Waikato having told me, privately, their plan worked a treat). Let us see if Auckland can do better.

I see by the results from NDC that there are members achieving good scores, some new names making the top of the list, absolutely fantastic. I guess from that, the club/assn coaches are doing a grand job, and may they continue.

I recently participated in the Taranaki and Hawera indoor matches and I wish to congratulate two members who achieved notable firsts. Fiona McLeod shot her first 300 (your support has finally paid off Mum & Dad), and Jack Cavanagh his first 100.10 (and proud Mum & Dad). Well done.

It is with sadness, a father of an executive member has passed away recently. The owner of a sports shop and a supplier of quality guns and ammunition in his day as most from Manawatu would remember Barry Lissington. We would like to pass on our condolences from the executive, to Peter and Jenayre Lissington and family who are all part of our extended shooting fraternity.

The Editor's

I had the pleasure of attending the opening of Awahuri's new range the other week and while I was there I had a shoot.

Now I was on target for a 100 with no inners at halfway until well, let's just say that I am still aspiring to shoot a 100 this season.

Anyway I could have filled the page with a story about it. However at the end of the day who really cares. I think this was one of the things about shooting that took me years to get my head around and understand. Bad cards happen, deal with it, learn from it and carry on.

I am now a Playcentre Dad and one of the things I have noticed, over the couple of weeks I have been doing it, is that Playcentre (and no doubt most community organisations) is similar to shooting in a couple of aspects. The organisation is mostly run by volunteers and as such they mostly fall into a couple of different categories.

Peter Sharpe

Two Cents

There is the proactive, the willing to help just point me in the right direction and then there is the drop and run.

If you are one of the proactive, good on you, if it wasn't for these people many things wouldn't get off the ground. For the willing to help, also well done, as it is great to know that if you organising anything that there is a group of people you can count on to help.

If you are one of the drop and run/shoot and scoot, then have a little think about this. I know shoot and scoot may be needed on the night but there is always other ways to help. You may be able to organise the prize giving or you may be able to do some painting or cleaning at other times. Talk to your club members about doing your bit!!!

Coaching award

John Martin from Ngaio Home Guard (Wellington) and Karori Rifle Club (fullbore) was awarded Community Coach of the Month from Sport Wellington in association with SPARC and Radio Sport. Recognition that is long overdue. John's contribution and dedication to maintaining a future in our sport has been acknowledged by those outside of the target shooting fraternity.

John has a spot on the Sport Wellington website <http://www.sportwellington.org.nz/coach-of-the-month/> where he shares the page with the likes of Wai Taumaunu, Pero Cameron and Ricki Herbert.

John with some of the current shooters he is coaching.

Well done John, what an achievement. We are proud of you.

A'Roving No More

We were very pleased to host Leon at Gore on the last stop of his last roving coaching mission and it might have been the best I have been to. No notes, no script (although he had a sarcastic comment for some of us for not fronting with pen and paper) Just a vast pool of knowledge and experience recalled at an instant and all tied together as we went along.

The session was based on what we wanted to know and started with everybody identifying an issue. Two hours later Leon had touched on most things as a lot more issues arose from the discussions and he cleverly linked it all together with mental management at the end.

Leon doing his coaching from a chair....

We had a mixture of ages and abilities from NZ reps to second year shooters and club coaches but none of that was a problem and both I (yes I was persuaded to change some old habits) and the schoolboy I took along went away with something to work on.

As it was his last one, Leon finally revealed the secret that we have all been looking for. It is Hard Work!!!! This inescapable fact of life was reinforced many times. It is the secret to everything. If you want be any good you have to put the time in.

After all the talk in the morning we were all keen to do some shooting after lunch. He took the four with the least experience and walked them through the whole process making alterations to positions where necessary while explaining the what and why for's, while the rest took it all in.

Leon giving Nick Goodwin some on the mound coaching

The more senior shooters then faced the music. Those tedious three shot groups getting up and down each time is hard on the old bodies but a valuable exercise to ensure repeatability.

One by one we were assessed and given advice. We tried new things, then more groups. One thing became clear, it doesn't matter how much you think you know there is always something to learn.

You know it has been a good day when there is lots of discussion and debate and it gets to 4pm with no one in a hurry to leave.

Thank you Leon. We think we can still get you down here again with the lure of some good duck shooting. Others might be able to offer some similar incentives on a one off basis. Just contact the office and they will twist his arm.

Robbie Gilchrist.

Division 1.

There were a lot of double headers this week making it a bit complicated and a bit harder to get a fix on where the competition is at. Eastern Force were talking themselves up last week and ended up with a win and a loss in their match. Manawatu are not to be trifled with and only conceded the composite and scored another solid total of 5,013 and open score of 2,976 which Martin thinks might be a record, we are not sure though. Hutt Valley took the open in the other match but left Eastern Force with the rest of the points giving them a satisfactory haul for the night.

Waikato, fresh from their teams of ten victory had a great round scoring 12 off both Canterbury and Auckland scoring a total of 5,023. The Plainsmen capped off a bad night for The "A" Team clean sweeping them. Double headers can be cruel if you have a bad night.

Division2 Pool A.

Alpine West returned to winning form against Otago winning everything except the juniors. The battle of the Tigers was a bit one sided with Wellington carrying on their Teams of Ten form, taking all the points off Taranaki.

Division 2 Pool B

Nelson & Wanganui which both had horror starts to the NDC went head to head and shared the points with Nelson getting slightly ahead. Although they are both still at the bottom of the table they are not out of it yet. Southland had a good win against in form Marlborough and the pair of them look comfortable at the top at this stage.

There were plenty of 300's this week. 9 with 7 in division 1. They were; Lindsay (did you see his inners) Arthur, Monique Garland, Kelvin Burt, Trevor Smith, Greg Menzies, Rory McLeod, Shaun Clark, Steven Lye and Malcolm Dodson. There were also another two 100.10's this week one from Lindsay Arthur and Jenna MacKenzie.
